

How to Register for the IFS Deforestation Check Self-Assessment

The IFS Deforestation Check

The IFS Deforestation Check helps you, as a supplier, analyse your supply chain for deforestation-related risks and ascertains compliance with the EU Deforestation Regulation (EUDR). As a first step, you need to complete an online self-assessment. The result provides an initial indication of the implementation status of the relevant due diligence processes. A coordinated scoring system facilitates automatic risk analysis, generating recommendations for subsequent actions.

The EU Deforestation Regulation

The EU has introduced its Deforestation Regulation, which aims to reduce the EU's contribution to global deforestation and forest degradation while encouraging sustainable and responsible supply chains. Under the EUDR, companies are required to establish a due diligence system to ensure relevant products are deforestation-free.

Process for Registering in the IFS Database for the Self-Assessment

The process for registering is easy and straightforward. The steps to take depend on whether you already have an account (A) or are new to the system (B):

A: You are certified or assessed to an IFS Standard or Program

1. Log in to the IFS Database
2. Choose 'My Certification' and select 'Self-assessment'.
3. Click on the IFS Deforestation Check self-assessment.
4. Complete and submit the questionnaire.

B: You are a new user of the IFS Database

1. Register for the IFS Database here
2. IFS checks your application and grants access
3. Log in to the IFS Database
4. From here, the same steps as under A apply.

Good to know: Your completed self-assessments are stored in your supplier account and can be easily shared with your business partners, just like other documents such as assessment reports and letters of confirmation. This enables you to share a single assessment with multiple partners, promoting efficiency and collaboration.
